Cost of Keeping Rats Runs High on Farms

Rats and mice, mankind's greatest animal enemies, cause enormous losses to agricultural crops, root crops, tubers, bulbs, cereals and trees. Rats also transmit such diseases as typhus and bubonic plague. It costs about two cents a day or $7.30 a year to keep a rat. One rat will eat and destroy from 85 to 100 pounds of feed a year, or as much as is consumed by a laying hen. A cow produces on food of 225 rats.

Trials Show Efficient Feeding of Molasses

Three series of trials using a total of 122 pigs were conducted to determine the maximum amount of cane molasses that can be utilized efficiently by pigs from weaning to a weight of 70 pounds. Rations containing levels of 15, 20, 30 and 40 per cent molasses were compared with check rations containing no molasses in the experiments at University of Hawaii.

The results indicate that, with the rations fed, 20 per cent is the maximum amount that will allow satisfactory gains and efficient feed utilization. Above this level of molasses both the rate of gain and efficiency of feed utilization decreases markedly.

Precautions Advised To Prevent Hog Flu

To keep flu from getting started, Iowa State college recommends that hogs be brought in at night from hogged-down cornfields to keep them from getting chilled. Overcrowding should be voided. Quarters should be planned so that sufficient space and adequate equipment will be available during bad weather, but the buildings should not be shut tight, making hogs too warm.

Uncle Sam Says

How would you like to write a check for $2,498.91 to yourself dated New Year's Day 1958? You can do exactly that by signing your name any time in January to an authorization form at your bank which will permit them to take $18.75 a month from the funds you have on deposit and buy one $25 Savings Bond for you every month for the next 10 years. The Payroll Savings Plan—which is the partial payment way to buy Savings Bonds where you work —is equally powerful in producing a sizable nestegg out of regular savings.

Organic Matter Rids Cropland of Bacteria

Viruses Prevent Plant Diseases From Spreading

By R. C. THOMAS
Ohio State College.

Few disease-causing bacteria will survive in soil whose organic matter supply has been built up by the use of green manure crops and the return of crop residues and manure. Those that do live are so changed that they are no longer a menace to crops.

Extracts from soil rich in organic matter contain viruses that depend for their existence upon living bacteria. These viruses are especially numerous in organic matter added to the soil through residues from grasses, legumes and grain crops.

When these viruses come in contact with plant disease forming bacteria they have a profound influence on them, changing the form of these bacteria and making them harmless so far as plants are concerned.

The intensity of competition for food materials and life itself among organisms inhabiting soil particles, are indicated by the fact that a single ounce of soil has an estimated living population of 50 million bacterial cells, besides many forms of fungi. Added to these are five million protozoa as well as other forms of organisms. Beneficial bacteria thrive best in soil well-stocked with organic matter and tend to crowd out the disease-causing kinds.

THE FRUIT OF UNCEASING LABOR

★ Between 1911 and 1935, a brief span of twenty-five years, extraordinary progress was made in public health. According to figures released by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the duration of human life during this period was extended by almost fourteen years. It is all the more remarkable in the light of the history of this period, which included the first World War, the worst epidemic in recent history, and America's most severe depression.

Many agencies have contributed to make America a more healthful place in which to live. Not the least of these are scientific medicine and pharmacy, which work unceasingly for better methods of prevention and treatment of disease.

Committee Will Study School Building Needs

High School Chatter . . .

Hi, folks! Yes, you guessed it—some more A. H. S. Chatter!

The senior girls seemed to have a wonderful time in Lynchburg last week when they went to have their pictures taken. At least they didn't come back sick as most o the boys did. Maybe it was because the girls haven't taken up smoking cigars.

Mr. Peters announced last Wednesday that we would be having mid-semester exams. Poor us!

It seems that the Spanish class got into a very interesing discussion on "the new look," the other day; Will some of you tell us how they ever got Mrs. Cheatham off the Spanish lesson? The very next day Mr. Dresser's Algebra class happened to see one of the teachers coming down the walk wearing a new hat. We heard they laughed, and as usual, Barbara didn't catch on. While we are on thetopic of styles, did you see Miss Asher's new grey outfit? And how about Ruth's new green suit with the fur collar? I tell you folks, you can't beat these high school pupils when it comes to styles. Did we hear Roger say "amen"?

The school is still buzzing with "who gave who what for Christmas." We forgot to mention Florence's bracelet last week. Byron certainly has good taste. But was she the only one who got a pretty bracelet, Betty Sue? Or, maybe we ought to ask Herbie.

The ninth grade has just finished their study of Treasure Island. And a little bird tells us they might be seeing the picture soon.

You've heard about the Who's Who in colleges and universities. Of course, we don't have anything like that in A. H. S. But can you guess who this person is? He is approximately 6 ft. tall, tips the scales at 190, has blue eyes, black hair, and a very friendly smile. This is a perfect description of this popular Adrian. He is vice president of his class, holds an important office in the S. C. A., is president of the Spanish Club, and an honorary member of the Latin Club. You usually see him dashing around the school helping someone or working on the annual. And he is right in the groove when it comes to music. He likes both popular and classical. Some of his favorite platters are "Trausmerei," "Civilization" and "Wiggle Worm." One of his favorite peeves is too many lessons. He is quite talented in printing, drawing and decorating for parties. And maybe you'll be hearing from him next year from R. P. I., studying interior decorating. Have you guessed who it is- Yep, that's right, Billy Guill!

Hixburg

Hixburg, Jan. 12.- Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sears, of Lynchburg, took Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Sears to High Point, N. C. Saturday. They returned Sunday P. M. They spent the time with his brother, Herman Sears. Mrs. Herman Sears is very ill.

Mrs. Pat McPhillips has returned to her home. She spent a week in the home of J. R. Marshall, recuperating from a recent operation. She is much improved in health.

Rev. J. S. Moore preached a fine sermon at Mathews Baptist Church Sunday A. M. A large number attended Union (Baptist and Presbyterian) SundaySchool. We will meet this Sunday, January 18, at the Presbyterian Church at 10:30.

Mrs. C. R. Carson and John were dinner guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Marshall Sunday. Callers in the same home that night were: Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carson and Dick Singleton and Miss Terrell Harvey. C. B. Carson was a supper guest there.

Local Funeral Director Gets New Ambulance - Funeral Coach

A handsome new Ambulance and Funeral Coach has recently been purchased by Richard D. Robinson, Appomattox Funeral Director. The new unit is of the latest design and model and will greatly add to the service rendered by the local Director. Mr. Robinson is shown above (right) with his Associate, J. C. Hudgins.

Over three hundred citizens of Appomattox County overflowed the Court House here yesterday to hear a discussion of the school building needs of the county and a possible increase in the tax levy.

After two hours of debate and discussion, the citizens adopted a P.-T. A. resolution which called for the school board, the county supervisors and a committee of twelve citizens to be named by the supervisors, to make a study of building needs and tax resources as a guide for future action.

George F. Abbitt, Jr., chairman of the board of supervisors, presided over the meeting. J. A. Burke, county superintendent of schools, made an able and detailed exposition of school conditions in the county and outlined some of the conditions which seem to make it advisable to plan a building program. He cited overcrowded conditions in both white and Negro schools and the likelihood of increased school population.

Mr. Graham, of the State Board of Education's Planning Division, reported on results of a preliminary study of the county's school needs, and urged that further study be made.

A large number of citizens were heard, both for and against a school building program. Channing Moon, of the Buckingham board of supervisors, told of similar problems in his county. Among others heard were: Mrs. Ivey Holland, Mrs. J. C. Caldwell, G. F. Abbitt, Jr., Chas. F. James, Frank Carr, A. R. Harwood, Floyd Coleman, Mrs. George Collins, Miss Flora Williams, Rhomey Wilson, Clarence Moore, C. C. Harvey, Charlie Johnson, Mr. Garrett, Mr. Woolridge, and others.

It was revealed by the supervisors that a tax re-assessment is scheduled this year and some revision of the tax rate is likely regardless of a school building program.

Mrs. Mozella Price spoke for the Negro citizens of the county and urged that Negro school needs be given serious study.

W. T. DAVIDSON

William Thomas Davidson, 74, died at his home here Sunday morning, following an illness of six months.

He was born in Appomattox County, June 6, 1873, son of the late Albert Thomas and Harriett Brooks Davidson. For fifty years he followed the trade of carpenter until he retired because of ill health. He was a member of Memorial Methodist Church, where funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. Floyd M. Lucas. He was buried in Old Herman Cemetery on U. S. Route 24.

Besides his wife, the former Miss Lou Hester Carter, he is survived by the following children: Braxton and Ollis Davidson, of Lynchburg; Mrs. Blanche Pulliam, of Richmond; Mrs. Hester Martin, Mrs. Evelyn Martin and Mrs. Nettie D. Hurt, all of Appomattox; two brothers, John and Howard Davidson; two sisters, Mrs. Carrie Shields and Mrs. Lena Farmer, all of Lynchburg; twenty-three grandchildren and four great grandchildren.
